Annexation plans proceed

Judge's ruling on Mitchell attempt clears way

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

In the wake of a double slam against the Mitchell incorporation drive, Granite City plans to go ahead with its annexation of 2,000 acres north of Interstate 270 near Highway 3.

The plan includes 1,500 acres owned by Union Electric Co., which had petitioned Granite City for annexation.

"They basically wanted to be in a more settled, stable government," said Dan Brown, director of Economic Development for Granite City.

Granite City's plans, which include several parcels stretching from St. Thomas Road and Highway 3 up to Chermeco and New Poag roads, include land partly within the proposed boundaries for Mitchell.

Many of Granite City's annexation plans predate Mitchell's annexation efforts, Brown said.

Most of the 2,000 acres is zoned for commercial and industrial use.

GRANITE CITY

Apparently, UE was wary of their land becoming part of Mitchell.

"With that much land and investment... we can do a lot more for them," Brown said.

UE was among those who objected to the incorporation of Mitchell.

The Madison County Board on Aug. 13 passed a resolution claiming power to review all annexations and incorporations. On Monday, Associate Judge Randall Bono threw out a petition requesting the Mitchell incorporation to be put on the November ballot.

Both of those events have stopped Mitchell's incorporation, at least as far as the surrounding cities are concerned.

With the resolution and court decision, Granite City can proceed with the annexation plans.

"They basically wanted to be in a more settled, stable government."

Dan Brown
on Union Electric

Brown said the plans, in addition to the 1,500 acres of UE land, include:

- 60 acres on Pontoon Road.
- one house on Pine, and one on Paul.
- 40 acres of the Metro East Sanitary District.

• the Jennings annexation, about 25 acres.

• 40 acres on Highway 3 south of Chain of Rocks Road.

Case squad nabs murder suspect

Madison man had outstanding warrant against him

By Michelle Duell
Staff writer

The Major Case Squad working with the Madison Police Department has arrested a suspect in the shooting death of a Granite City man who died after an assailant shot him in the face at close range, police said.

Kenneth Deal, 27, of Madison was taken to the Madison County Jail on Tuesday, where he is being held on $500,000 bond, said Supervisor Mick Hunter of the Major Case Squad.

Hunter said Deal was to have been arraigned on Wednesday.

MADISON

Deal was arrested for allegedly killing Leonard Wright, 40, who died early Saturday morning at St. Louis University Hospital, police said.

Wright was shot with a pistol Friday at Ewing and Second streets in Madison while he sat in his 1970 blue Chevrolet pickup, said Lt. Otto Jakob, deputy commander investigating the murder for the Major Case Squad.

"The (victim) was approached by a person and shot in the facial area," Jakob said, adding that no witnesses to the shooting had come forward.

Wright's car was stopped in a well-known drug area, Hunter said, but he would not comment on whether drugs were involved.

Hunter said Deal had not confessed to the shooting.

"He walked in (to the police station) because he heard we wanted to talk to him," Hunter said. "He didn't know we already had a warrant (for his arrest)."

"We were looking for him as a sus-

Local youth stunned by Colorado flooding

By Michelle Duell
Staff writer

When teenagers affiliated with the Central Free Methodist Church in Pontoon Beach took a trip to Colorado for an International Youth Conference, they narrowly escaped a flash flood 9 feet deep that killed five people.

"We were in the Moley Arena — a sports arena — in Fort Collins with 3,000 youth (ages 15 to 24) when it happened," said Tammi Barnett, wife of the Rev. Greg Barnett, who leads the ministry at the church.

A group of 96 youth from Illinois were there, she said of the July 23 event.

"It had been raining on and off all day," Tammi Barnett said. "While we were in (the arena) the executive team noticed water was starting to rise. Then they learned there was a flood alert. We found out we'd have to stay there all night."

The Lory Student Center, where the youth were supposed to be playing games after the conference concluded for the day, flooded that day, and the sound crew, which had gone there to rescue equipment, were up to their necks in water.

"Had we let the kids go early, they would have been there," Barnett said.

The flood waters came within 4 inches of a generator in the arena to provide standby air conditioning, she said.

"Had we let the kids go early, they would have been there."

Tammi Barnett

"Had water gotten in the generator, it could have exploded," she said.

The administration team gave as much information as they could without causing the crowd to panic, which was difficult, because everyone there had to stay there throughout the night, Barnett said.

"For food, we made out with sandwiches and whatever else we could find to eat," she said.

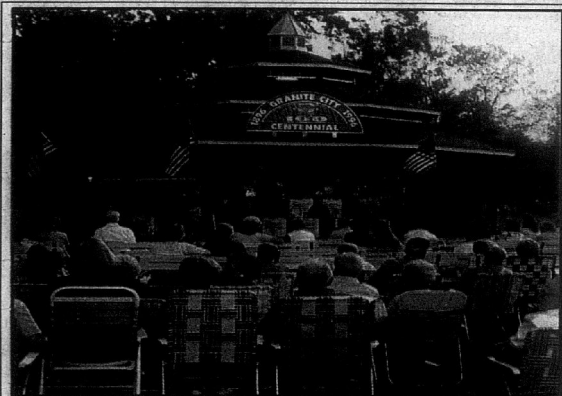

"Because we had brought our own generator, the kids stayed cool."

Amy Niedhart, 15, of Pontoon Beach, remembered the night well.

"I was kind of scared but didn't realize what was happening," Niedhart said. "We stayed in there for 12½ hours, and it was very uncomfortable. (The leaders) handled everything really well. No one was jumping around or loud. Some of us laid down on the hard floor and tried to get some rest or sat in groups and talked."

"I probably would have been really scared," Niedhart said. "We were so close to being killed. Everyone else would have been, too."

MetroLink tax on ballot

Voters will have a chance in November to decide the fate of MetroLink in Madison County.

The Madison County Board approved, by a 25-2 vote, a measure to put a half-cent sales tax to finance a $515 million extension of the light-rail system into the county on the November ballot.

One possible MetroLink route could go through Granite City to Wood River, East Alton and Alton. A second corridor along Illinois 159 could link Collinsville, Maryville, Edwardsville and possible Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, according to the Madison County Transit District.

The tax would go from four-cents to three-fourths cents on every $1 in sales in the 16 townships in the Madison County Transit District.

The tax would not apply to sales of licensed or titled property, including cars and boats, officials said.

The tax would generate $276 million from 1999 to 2015 to cover planning, engineering, construction and operating costs, assuming 50 percent is matching federal funds for design and construction are received.

"This is an exciting time," Board Chairman Rudy Papa said last week. "We are planting a seed that will blossom 12 to 15 years down the road and take us out of the dark ages."

NEWS IN REVIEW

Editor's note: News in Review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is intended for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record-Journals.

More Madison homes demolished

The city of Madison continued its "Clean Up Madison" project with the demolition Aug. 14 and 15 of three buildings that were abandoned and considered eyesores.

The buildings demolished Thursday were at 204 Madison and 1511 Second St., the latter of which was a known crack house. The old tavern on Fourth came down Friday.

Mayor John Hamm said six more demolitions were to be completed by the end of this week.

Night Out planned for Saturday

The Night Out Neighborhood Watch-In Granite City will be held Saturday from 8 to 10 p.m. Residents are encouraged to turn on their porch lights and go out to meet their neighbors and participate in Neighborhood Watch activities.

If people know their neighbors, they will watch out for one another, said Night Out coordinator Debbie Stanton.

MetroLink tax to be on ballot

The Madison County Board on Wednesday approved, by a 25-2 vote, a measure to put a half-cent sales tax to finance a $515 million extension of the light-rail system into the county on the November ballot.

Judge says no to Mitchell

Associate Judge Randall Bono dismissed on Monday a petition of those seeking the incorporation of the Mitchell area. There will be no vote on the November ballot. As of Journal press time Wednesday, Mitchell area residents had not formally announced they would continue the fight to incorporate.

Bono basically upheld two resolutions the county board had passed within the last 30 days. On July 16, two days after incorporation proponents filed their petition, the County Board approved a resolution claiming power to review incorporations and annexations based on the land-use plan. On Aug. 13, the board passed a resolution that said Mitchell could not incorporate.

Business owners protest demolitions

Carrying signs displaying such slogans as "Save Our City," several downtown Granite City business owners, their families and supporters marched in front of City Hall Monday.

They were protesting what they consider to be the destruction of the Downtown area. The main target of their protest was Mayor Ron Selph, who was unavailable for comment on Monday.

Mental illness law goes to court

An Illinois law that allows "guilty but mentally ill" verdicts in criminal cases apparently is headed for a test in the Illinois Supreme Court.

A state appellate court has ruled the law unconstitutional, siding with critics who argue that it misleads jurors into believing they are assigning a lower level of blame and a lower level of punishment to a defendant who is mentally ill.

The Illinois Supreme Court ultimately must decide whether the ruling is correct.

Drivers may take names off mail lists

Special to the Journal

Illinois motorists who don't want their personal information sold to direct-mail companies should file an official request as soon as possible to have their records withheld from mailing lists.

Until a lawsuit filed by one of the nation's largest information marketers is resolved, the secretary of state's office will be compelled to sell private information about motorists to mail-marketing companies and telemarketers, a practice Secretary of State George Ryan abolished last year.

To protect consumers' privacy in the meantime, Ryan said his office will let motorists have private information withheld, and will make the procedure for "opting-out" far easier than in the past.

Ryan eliminated the "opt-out" procedure last Jan. 1 after ending a 70-year-old practice of selling the information.

However, a Sangamon County circuit judge in May decided Ryan had no authority to make the change, ruling in favor of L. Polk & Co. of Detroit. Polk sued to block Ryan's new policy immediately after it took effect.

Ryan appealed, but meantime was ordered to sell mass marketers information about motorists.

Motorists not wanting their personal information sold should come to a "Protect Private Information" form with Ryan's office, available at any driver services facility or by calling 1-800-252-8960 or 217-524-0122, or on the Web at www.sos.state.il.us.

City granted power to establish enterprise zone

Special to the Journal

The City Council gave Edwardsville's official nod to establish the "enterprise zone" at its meeting Tuesday night, a perfunctory move while the plan awaits final approval from higher powers.

Establishment of the enterprise zone must be approved by all parties that own property within its boundaries — in this case, the city of Edwardsville, the village of Pontoon Beach and Madison County — before the state approves it.

The plan then will go before the Southwestern Illinois Development Authority and the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs for ratification. That approval is expected by Aug. 25.

Pontoon Beach and now

EDWARDSVILLE

Edwardsville already have approved the measure, and it was to be approved by the county at a meeting Wednesday. The proposal then will be forwarded to SWIDA.

The proposed enterprise zone covers about 1,700 acres of the 2,700-acre Gateway Commerce Center, a light industrial park near the southwest edge of town that is expected to produce thousands of jobs and millions of dollars in revenue, said Edwardsville Mayor Gary Niebur.

Its conception was approved in March by the Illinois Legislature. Enterprise zone status will confer tax breaks on property owners and developers within its boundaries.

Last week, the city announced plans to annex about 1,700 acres of land, about half of which lies within the boundaries of the proposed enterprise zone. That move ensures Edwardsville a spot on the zone's governing board, along with the county, Pontoon Beach and SWIDA.

With that move, the city became "a player in the entire development instead of a spectator," Niebur said.

The mayor said after Tuesday night's council meeting that moving to establish the enterprise zone and annex property within its boundaries won't be of significant benefit tomorrow but will be in the future.

"These are very substantial actions for the city of Edwardsville," he said.

Enough to make one cry

Ragweed allergies may be more intense this year

By Jean Abernathy
Staff writer

From now until late September there will be a whole lot of sneezing going on.

Thanks — or no thanks — to a cool, wet spring and dry midsummer, a severe ragweed season is predicted.

"Ragweed pollen is the No. 1 cause of allergies," said Dr. James Wedner, chief of clinical allergy and immunology at Washington University School of Medicine.

And there is no escaping ragweed in St. Louis. "Ragweed thrives best in areas disturbed by man," Wedner said. "Go by any vacant lot in St. Louis and you'll see short ragweed."

Wedner added that the evil weed's taller cousin, commonly known as giant ragweed — hangs around roadsides.

Ragweed is an "ugly green plant with dull, yellow flowers," Wedner said.

There are two groups of people who have allergic reactions to ragweed. One group suffers from itchy eyes, itchy running nose, sneezing and postnasal drip. The other group is those who are asthmatic. Ragweed can bring on a severe asthmatic episode in those people.

Wedner advises people who are extremely sensitive to ragweed to stay inside as much as possible.

"Keep the air conditioner fan on," he said. "Air conditioner filters will take most of the pollen out of the air." There are also a number of over-the-counter treatments that offer relief to allergy sufferers. Besides the standard antihistamine and decongestant, Wedner said an anti-inflammatory nasal spray, which is not a steroid, is available.

Some patients opt for prescription sprays with a steroid base, he said.

Wedner advises against spray decongestants.

"There is a rebound effect," he said. "Once the drug wears off, you are worse off."

Some people find allergy shots to be an effective remedy. The ragweed season in St. Louis usually begins in mid-August.

Land

Granite City will eventually have public hearings on the annexations, and the City Council will vote whether to annex the lands.

Brown said the city hopes to have the lands as part of Granite City by October.

Arrest

NINE members of the Major Case Squad are investigating the murder with the Madison City Police Department, Jakob said.

The investigation is continuing, police said.

Secretary of State George H. Ryan, in cooperation with the Illinois Department of Senior Citizens, is offering a Rules of the Road Review Course for all citizens in the Granite City area.

The Rules of the Road Review Course will be held from 9 - 11 a.m. Friday, Aug. 29, at the Granite City Township Building.

Ordinance could change festival drinking hours

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Proposed changes to a Collinsville ordinance would encourage revelers at this year's Italian Fest to patronize Main Street taverns after 11 p.m. and discourage them from bringing their pets to the event.

Police Chief Gerrit Gillespie discussed the changes with the Collinsville City Council during its workshop meeting Monday night.

He said that they were being recommended not only by him but also by members of the Italian Fest Committee.

Gillespie said that clearing the streets once the Fest ends has always been a task.

While the Fest has a set time to end its beer sales, usually between 9:30 p.m. and 10 p.m., it does not have a set time for everyone to stop walking around with open containers.

Gillespie said that poses a problem. "We ask all the people on Main Street to stop (alcoholic) beverages inside," Gillespie said.

"It's probably the only time we encourage people to go into bars. We've been doing that in the past but without the leverage of an ordinance... people don't react to it."

Dispersing the crowd not only helps law enforcement but also the Committee with its clean-up efforts, he said.

Gillespie said that some concerns also were raised after several large dogs attended last year's event.

"The area is too congested with far too many people for us to allow large animals — on Main Street," Gillespie said.

The only exceptions would be guide dogs for the blind and the ponies that will be part of the Children's Area during the Fest, Gillespie said.

Councilman Don Koonce said he spied a pot-bellied pig and a snake among the crowds at last year's Fest.

The council will vote on the changes at next Monday's regular meeting.

The two-day event, which covers the blocks of downtown's Main Street, draws hundreds of thousands of people each year. This year's Italian Fest will be held Sept. 19-20.

Each fiscal year, the Farm Service Agency (FSA) has available loan funds for all eligible applicants to acquire land, equipment, and operating capital for farming purposes, says Ray Gvillo, county executive director, with FSA.

"It was dark," said Lisa White, 16, also a member of the church in Pontoon Beach.

"The power came back on after nine hours or so. We sang and prayed and stuff. We didn't know how bad it was until the next day."

Anne Olson, 17, another church member, attended the conference, contributed their safety to God.

"There was no side, and we were safe, because he protected us," she said, adding the experience strengthened her faith.

"When I learned five people had died in the flood, I was shocked," she said. "The administrators didn't say how bad it was or anything."

"Right before we went to the auditorium," it was raining really hard," she said. "The water came off the mountains. We were freezing, really cold. We were wet when we got there and were wet throughout the night. We had stomped through mud puddles to get there," Barnett knew it was bad and the top strip of the

THE LAW AND

By RICK REED

Attorney At Law

Sometimes people contact this office and indicated that they have been criminally attacked on the property of a particular business establishment. The question that arises in these cases is whether the business owner can be held responsible for these attacks by third parties.

Generally there is no duty to protect another against the criminal attacks of third parties. However, an owner or occupier of land in Illinois owes a duty to invitees on his premises to reasonably guard against acts of third parties when such acts are reasonably foreseeable.

In one recent case in Danville, Illinois, the plaintiff entered a department store to make a purchase. As the plaintiff was leaving through the front entrance, she was confronted by two men who took her purse and knocked her to the ground. She brought a negligence action against the store in an effort to recover money for her injuries.

The plaintiff's complaint alleged that the store owner had a duty to protect her from criminal attacks by third persons which the store owner knew or should have known were reasonably likely to occur. The court noted that the two men were earlier inside the store. She felt this shop notice that there was a robbery in progress. The plaintiff's negligence claim was dismissed. The real issue in this case was whether the plaintiff was reasonably foreseeable by the owner of the store knew or should have known were reasonably

In this case, the trial court found that the defendant, the plaintiff. The court felt that regarding a previous robbery of the store, the two men were not sufficient to make the plaintiff reasonably foreseeable.

SOUND OFF!

Workers are messy...
I want to complain about the street department that leaves long, dried grass along the side of your yard. Could you get someone to rake it up or clean it up?

Too much salary?
I'm calling about the Collinsville (school) superintendent making $101,000 in one year. Where else in America can somebody sit on their rear and collect $101,000 except in Collinsville?

Thanks for the seats
Thank you to the city of Collinsville for putting benches back into the downtown mini park. I already see more people enjoying them than I have all summer.

Crossed crosswords
I can't believe that for the third consecutive issue you put the wrong crossword puzzle in the paper. It was done on the sixth, 10th and 13th.

Where's the story?
I just opened up the Fairview Heights Journal for Wednesday, Aug. 13, and the very front page says go to 7A for continuation of story. I can't find anything. I guess in the next issue you will let us know what the results were.

Stash your trash
In answer to the Sound Off! caller in the Aug. 14 Press-Record regarding the alley mess in the 3000 block of Destin in Granite City: I would bet that the person who called lives there, and if they would keep their trash where it belongs, the alley wouldn't be a mess in the first place.

Where's the chief?
Funny thing that the Collinsville fire chief is in Creve Coeur today and it's Saturday and the emergency vehicle is sitting up at his apartment. What in the heck kind of fire chief do you call that? When the Celebrity is at the fire station, why didn't he leave the Suburban at the headquarters?

He went out Wednesday and bought $5,000 worth of helmets for the firefighters which they didn't need. I talked to several of them this morning.

Make it the Pork District

Here we go again. The Collinsville Area Recreation District is trying to find ways to blow your money again. This time they want to blow your money on a water park. Talk about pork barrel projects.

Instead of calling them the Collinsville Area Recreation Park District, I am proposing that we change their name to Collinsville Area Recreation Park District.

Not nice anymore?
I've been reading the Press-Record and the politicians keep saying how nice it is in the Tri-City area. Well, I have been gone from that area for 20 years and it is completely pathetic from the time I used to live there.

To call the Journal "Sound Off" line, dial 344-2340 and leave your message. We won't print personal attacks or unfair criticism of individuals or businesses. Please keep your comments brief and reasonable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Adults leave trail of debris

TO THE EDITOR:
Everyone talks about our children not having any (respect) and how to teach it to them.

Well if you live around St. John Cemetery and Church or walk thru Wilson Park, the lack of respect award goes to the adults 25 and older.

These people walk their dogs and allow them to use our people walk their dogs and let them "go" in their neighbor's yard and area and leave it for them to clean up.

It's just as disgusting to see them in the graveyard letting them "go" on grave and headstones. Who wants to smell and see when visiting the gravesight of a family member?

It is not right for your neighbors to clean up after your dog. I do not like cleaning up after your dog; keep (it) in your own yard or clean it up yourself. The people in New York clean up after their dogs or get fines, maybe the city would benefit from such tickets.

Respect also concerns yard waste: the leaves, grass and branches you put in the street. It only stops up the drains at the corner of your street and causes water to back up in peoples' basements. The city officials aren't bothered by that. Please help your own neighborhood to stay clean.

Mitchell fight not over

TO THE EDITOR:
Attention all Mitchell residents:

Our efforts are not over to turn our incorporation attempts into reality. The Madison County Board along with Judge Randall Bono have turned us down.

Consider the sources. These people not only have put up barriers in front of us, they have done something much worse than that. They have taken your right as an American away. It doesn't matter if you are for or against (incorporation). Your rights to vote have been compromised.

To this point we have acted (calmly) and tried to be reasonable. We have been picked on by the big bully. And we have not had much support, other than what we have supplied on our own.

We will continue to push forward. One battle may have been lost, but the war is not over! This should only give us more strength and drive. We have more inner strength and determination than anyone can imagine. Something as special as Mitchell is definitely worth fighting for.

Let's go Mitchell. We can do it!

Who's parking here?

TO THE EDITOR:
I was in the post office about 2 p.m. on a Monday, and I had to park in a no-parking space, so I could mail some letters. I went in the post office there. The lot was full. What kind of post office are they running in Granite City?

Wants rules preserved

TO THE EDITOR:
This is in regards to the Federal Trade Commission proposal to weaken standards for "Made in USA" claims by manufacturers. Under the new proposal, products would be labeled "Made in the USA" with only 75 percent domestic labor and materials. Current rules require such goods to be "All or virtually all made" with domestic labor and materials.

I feel the current rules should be preserved. In the face of ever-increasing foreign imports in our market place, we need the "Made in the USA" label to guide us in the purchase of USA-made goods.

Chip weighs on reader's shoulder

Another attack of the anonymous letter spurs response

By Joe Leicht
Staff writer

I usually file anonymous mail next to the coffee grounds, banana peels, orange rinds and "You may have just won $10 Million!" notes from Ed McMahon, but I went and opened a chicken letter last week. Did it make my day!

At first, I thought I'd received artwork from a tot when I saw paper scraps pasted collage-style to a news clipping.

But nope. On closer inspection, I saw the clipping was a recent column I wrote defending the Promise Keepers men's group. It came with a mock-religious card assuring me that "Jesus loves (me), but everyone else thinks (I'm) a..." well, a rectum (thus confirming one of my long-held suspicions.)

Pasted across the article were well-worn (the apocryphal phrases that anti-social dweebs who live to scan the Internet try to ascribe to historical figures in order to justify their gripes with humanity.)

I wanted to thank the reader personally for the words of enlightenment, but a conspicuously absent name and address foiled me. But out of sheer appreciation, hereinbelow share some of them:

Joe Leicht

"Religion is bunk" — Thomas A. Edison. (Obviously, someone told Tom said before that light bulb went off in his head.)

"The Christian God is cruel, vindictive, capricious and unjust" — Thomas Jefferson. (And if you believe Jefferson said that, I'd like to show you how, in your spare time and with just a small upfront investment, you can earn $500,000 or more a year selling household items your family, friends and neighbors will all want and need.)

"The first clergyman was the first sly rogue who encountered the first fool" — Voltaire. (Do we put much stock in the words of a French socialist who was a gliboutine devotee?)

"When a man is freed of religion, he has a better chance to live a normal and wholesome life" — Sigmund Freud. (This assessment from a doctor whose catch-all prescription was bed rest with the bedmate of one's choice.)

Visible between the glued scraps were red-linked notations indicating points in the column where I must have really pushed this reader's buttons. Radical concepts like "asking God for help," "witnessing to faith" and "spiritual nourishment" seemed to pain him or her deeply.

Now and then, fits of angst from folks who enjoy the joy that most of us find by placing faith in something bigger than ourselves or the Almighty Government make their way onto a letters-to-the-editor page or onto the airwaves of an all-night talk show.

But rather than reach for the Raid when our existential friends skitter out of the woodwork, let's instead gently plop them under the microscope.

In my college days, I had some classmates (and teachers) who shared my new pen pal's resentment of the believing majority. I would pose to some classmates and teachers the argument's sake, let's say the millions of us who believe in a benevolent transcendent are wrong and the handful of irritable agnostics who jeer us have been right all along.

If our belief in nonnegotiable morality through faith has helped us find happiness, raise well-adjusted children and lead productive lives that enable us to pay the taxes that support those who choose not to steer their lives by a moral compass, isn't that "foolish belief," at worst, useful?

Would adopting instant gratification as our "greatest good" make a better world, or a worse one?

Lastly, I'd ask those who sniff that "believing is easier than thinking" how they know that their parents, children, spouses or friends love them.

What data do they have in support of their belief that the child who hugs them, the parent who provides for them or the spouse that is faithful to them is acting on anything but genetic programming?

The anonymous reader dropped the names of Jefferson, Edison, Bruce Calvert, John Morley and others. I have a few of my own to offer.

Anselm of Canterbury, Augustine, Thomas Aquinas and T.S. Eliot.

I invite my angry friend to give some of these guys a once over. And afterward, to send me some more greetings — with a signature and return address, that is.

AREA NEWS

Winery becomes toast of Air Force

By Joe Leicht
Staff writer

This year, Mark and Susan Hendershot of Waterloo will be sending something besides their tax dollars to Washington D.C.

Their Waterloo Winery has been picked as the official vintner of the U.S. Air Force for the service branch's 50th anniversary. The winery has contracted for 5,000 blue-glass, silver etched bottles of Chablis that bear the Air Force's trademark eagle insignia.

The Waterloo-bottled "American Chablis" — a trans-American blend of California, Illinois and New York-grown grapes — will, if it escapes the dinner table, join the commemorative bomber jackets, watches, coins, ball caps and other mementoes treasured by military officers and their families.

The Hendershots and the special edition bottles are headed for Washington for a short week of black-tie dinners, pomp and circumstance Sept. 15-18. They will join other official golden anniversary sponsors for the dedication of the U.S. Air Force Memorial Foundation.

Bottle Number One in the certified edition is reserved for President Bill Clinton, but the Hendershots aren't sure whether they'll get to hand deliver it to him.

"We could, I've got his bottle right here for him, we just corked it yesterday," Susan laughed last weekend.

She, Mark and some local business, government and industry officials spent the morning of Aug. 15 cranking out the first bottles of the limited series.

Waterloo Mayor Bob Krump, State Sen. Dave Luechtefeld and Illinois Grape Growers and Wine-making Association President John McFarland were among the guest corks at the winery.

Landing the wine contract

"It was just overwhelming, and even now I can't believe that no other winery thought of it."

Susan Hendershot

has made the 11-year-old winery an even more prominent spot on the Southern Illinois tourism map. Susan said "it's a miracle story that seems like it was meant to be. It all just fell together."

"It started when I noticed I was getting all these requests for custom-etched labels from colonels at Scott Air Force Base. Then it struck me when my dad (career Air Force man George Jecha of Chicago) passed away and the monument came in at Jefferson Barracks (Cemetery) that it was the 50th anniversary of the Air Force," Susan explained.

On a hunch, Susan arranged for the design of a prototype bottle with the Air Force logo, and took the bottle to Scott Air Force, where it got rave reviews.

From Scott, the bottle was over-neglected to the Pentagon. Susan learned that the Air Force wanted, first 3,500, then 5,000 bottles when retired Lt. Gen. Robert Springer telephoned her.

"It was just overwhelming, and even now I can't believe that no other winery thought of it," she said.

The out-of-the-blue business coup is tempered by a touch of melancholy for Susan.

"It does make me think of Dad a lot. I would have been something for him to see how this all came about."

American Heart Walk Saturday

Walkers of all ages are expected to take steps to fight heart disease and stroke — America's leading causes of death and disability — at the American Heart Walk at 8 a.m. Saturday at Belleville Area College.

"The event participants aren't just walking for their health," said Chuck Eckley, event chairperson. "They're raising desperately needed funds to support American Heart Association education programs and lifesaving research."

"In return for these efforts, each walker who raises $100 and more will earn an American heart Walk T-shirt and other great thank-you prizes," he said. In addition to the event's co-chairperson, Laura Grandy, other volunteers of the 1997 Heart Walk Committee include: Carol Bartle, prize chairperson; Norma Crow, publicity chairperson; Kathi Hill and Patti Klepac, team coordinators; Bob Samples, sponsorship chairperson, and Yvonne Wills, logistics chairperson.

Those serving as industry leaders are: Terry Mackin, Roger Taylor, Carol Eckert, Sister Agnes McDougall, Karen Sprinkle, Clara Taylor, Gloria Nado and Bill Miller.

Sponsors include: Boehringer Mannheim, Magna Bank, March, Memorial Hospital, NationsBank, Pepsi and St. Elizabeth's Hospital of Belleville. Belleville Area College is hosting the walk.

Thursday, Aug. 21
The moon opposes Saturn, enabling many to streamline their vision. None in on one focus that harnesses all your goals and makes them possible. The astrological powers are best focused toward one brilliant ambition. This is a wonderful time to focus on healing. Even those who have been ill for some time will show marked improvement. The Virgin sun nurtures healthy minds and bodies.

ARIES (March 21-April 19).

Reflect on yesterday. Assimilating what you recently learned is your key to success. Mail-order catalogs are useful and economical. Artistic people need to be because people can't read your mind.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Current relationships become stronger. Your credentials speak for themselves. Play hard ball early for best results. Hold VIPs to their word. Seek quality time with those important to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21).

Dismiss others' cynicism, and follow your own vision. You have done what few thought you could. A message is distorted. So seek out its original source. Solitude this afternoon yields marvelous ideas.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You hold the luckiest cards. Reach for a whole new set of goals. You'll attain them by circulating and making new contacts. Your money-managing habits pay off beautifully. A Libra loves you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). A financial opportunity presents itself—bonuses, raises and new sources of income are all likely. Go solo this evening, and do research. A way-out, futuristic business brings bounty.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 5). Your discipline and drive bring reward! Until December, your skills could place you in an exciting, new position. Devote your passion and idealism to a project and romance follows. You'll have time for both—especially if you choose an understanding Sagittarius or Aquarius. Ask the powers that be for a favor, gift or a loan, and you'll receive it in January. Luxuries come in April.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Opportunities for love abound everywhere. Make the most of life and marriage or a commitment will be granted. A Gemini or Cancer is thrilled with your sex appeal, but a calm Taurus may be the best choice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Generous and understanding folk pave your way. Reconciliations are likely. Delay making a final commitment. Important meetings and dealings with authorities work in your favor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Paying for expert help is well worth it. Doing it alone will insure that you spend extra time or money dealing with mistakes. An unorthodox procedure marks you as the winner. An older man helps you understand.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Nothing ventured is nothing gained, so get out and try. New purchases expand your knowledge. You can complete a project if you stand behind your values. A unique relationship blossoms.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You receive an overdue dividend. Be diplomatic with your love or partner. Your versatility makes you a prime candidate for a bonus relocation. Great joy comes from expanding your knowledge of art or music.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). The focus is on partnership, collaboration or marriage. A previously inactive situation goes full-speed ahead today. You possess clarity and relaxed foresight about future plans. A major decision is on the horizon.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Because you model compassion, a contented glow warms your exchanges with others. Slow your pace, accept an invitation, and balance your checkbook. The mail brings life-altering, wonderful news.

Herrin on 1-year deal with SIUC

The mention of "contract" might make you think of St. Louis Rams No. 1 draft choice Orlando Pace or of Mark McGwire and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Not so here. While I was on vacation, Southern Illinois University-Carbondale Athletic Director Jim Hart announced that Salukis men's basketball coach Rich Herrin will be given a one-year contract that will expire July 31, 1998.

Previously given what is termed a "continuing contract" at slightly more than $100,000 per year, Herrin now faces a 12-month contract that may not be renewed even if he has a winning season.

Although SIUC Chancellor Don Beggs said two losing seasons were part of the reason for the contract change, Hart in a July 22 press release noted: "My agreement to reconsider this decision (renewing the new one-year contract) should the men's basketball team having a winning season in no way guarantees what the outcome of such reconsideration might be."

In other words, should Herrin do something like reverse last season's 13-17 record and go 17-13, there's no guarantee a new contract would follow.

Herrin is 21-15 in 12 years at SIUC, but a 24-35 mark the past two years, including a seven-game losing streak at the end of last season, has affected home attendance — the real key to the 62-year-old Herrin's future.

Even though Herrin led the Salukis to seven consecutive postseason tournament bids prior to last season and is the fifth-winningest coach in Missouri Valley Conference history, attendance has dwindled.

In 1996-97, the home average was 3,560 in games, the worst in the 32-year history of SIUC Arena. Just two seasons earlier, when the Salukis were 23-9, the average attendance was 6,442.

Others numbers might seem impressive like the Salukis returning three starters, five of their six scorers and adding 6-foot-9 transfer Chris Tunnell, a junior from Florida International.

Yet, the number of fans who comes to the games is the new floor at SIUC Arena and the number of wins, including those related to a postseason bid, appear all that will save Herrin in Carbondale.

EXTRA INNINGS: The July 8 death of 80-year-old Tom Kirkman of Marissa will not go without note here as he led a longtime coach of men's baseball in Tilden and Marissa. Mr. Kirkman may have guided more college teams, professional players from Southern Illinois than any of his peers.

The list includes former Cardinals and Los Angeles pitcher Jerry Reuss, but in 1975 Marissa reached the Mon-Clair League finals with a team led by former major leaguers Larry Stahl and Rich Hacker.

"He was a unique, one-of-a-kind baseball person," Hacker said of Kirkman, who retired from A.O. Smith in Granite City.

"I can go to a grocery store in Tilden or Marissa or anywhere there and still hear Tom Kirkman stories."

At the recent tribute to retiring Marissa High coach Lee Schulte, there was much to support Hacker's appraisal.

"Tom had an intense love for the game of baseball," said Sen. Dave Luechtefeld, who pitched for Kirkman before and after his collegiate career at St. Louis University.

Schulte and former minor league infielder Arlie Smith referred to Kirkman as "an outstanding recruiter."

"He knew every outstanding player in Southern Illinois and pulled most of his teams" bills out of his own pocket," said Hacker, who remains active as a scout for the San Diego Padres.

Cougars look to continue climb

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

The excitement meter is buried on high as the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville men's soccer team prepares for the 1997 season.

The Cougars enjoyed great success last fall, when they went 11-7 in their inaugural season of Great Lakes Valley Conference play.

SIUC coach Huneke believes the experienced Cougars can continue the momentum built a year ago.

SOCCER

"We are going to have a very attractive and skilled team this year," Huneke said. "With the returning players, it's easy for them to continue the momentum. Every team then also has some new components of the puzzle that is starting something new. It is a little of both. We have momentum carrying over from the returning players and (are) establishing new momentum for the new players."

"In essence, I do think you try to build and utilize good momentum when you have a lot of experience, and I do think we have a fair amount of experience."

Experience is sprinkled throughout the Cougars' lineup. Up top is fifth-year senior Darren Snyder, who was an All-Central Region and first team All-GLVC selection last year.

Seniors Jerry Reed and Rob Thornberry return to the midfield. Reed was a second team All-GLVC pick last year.

Also figured into the midfield mix are seniors David King and Jason Maxfield of Granite City. Matt Dubach, a senior from Edwardsville, returns on defense.

"Darren Snyder will be a key part of it for us up front," Huneke said. "I think we do have some good experience with the likes of Jerry Reed and Matt Little (Granite City) at midfield. On defense, we have a lot of experience with Doug Hartmann (Collinsville), (Brett) Darby and Dubach."

"Andy Korbesmeyer in goal is a third-year player. He is a sophomore but he redshirted his freshman year. He has seen a lot of prior experience to SIUC. I think we should be removed from elementary mistakes."

SIUC also gains the experience of a handful of transfer players. Huneke said Little, who transferred from Western Illinois, will be the field general at SIUC. Justin Bernack (Granite City) transferred (See COUGARS, Page 3B)

Jason Maxfield returns for his senior season with Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

Riding high Anderson in thick of national points chase

By Patrick C. Heston

Rich Anderson of Granite City travels nearly 12,000 miles annually to play in the dirt.

Anderson, a 1974 graduate of Granite City South High School, competes in the American Historic Racing Motorcycle Association.

The AHRMA is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to restoring and competing on classic motorcycles. With level has been a dream of over 5,000 members AHRMA since its inception. I can't believe I'm actually doing it now, world.

With 20 national caliber motocross events yearly, spread across the United States, members compete for national championships on tracks, such as Unadilla (New York), Honda Hills (Ohio) and Columbus (Indiana).

Anderson, who has been riding dirt bikes since 1971 and racing competitively for the last two years, won last week's AHRMA event at Honda Hills Motocross Park in Linville, Ohio. It was his first professional victory.

The win vaulted Anderson to second place in the national points standings for those in the over-40 age group. With only two venues to be visited before the season closes — Steam Boat Springs, Colo., and Hollister, Calif. — Anderson said.

"There is no money involved in winning these races. It's all cost and no reward. But to restoring and competing on classic motorcycles. With level has been a dream of over 5,000 members AHRMA since its inception. I can't believe I'm actually doing it now, world."

Anderson will race in several races this year. He must win a minimum number needed to compete for the points championship. Other drivers may race in more, but only a competitive top 10 (or final) count toward the championship.

More races means more chances to score big, but last two years, won last week's AHRMA event at Honda Hills Motocross Park in Linville, Ohio. It was his first professional victory.

Motorcycle racing keeps Anderson family on run

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

Dirt bike racing is Rich Anderson's hobby. More than that, it is his labor of love. Anderson, a lifelong resident of Granite City, and an operating engineer at Shell Oil in Roxana, competes in the American Historic Racing Motorcycle Association's annual 20-event circuit on Saturdays from May to October.

But he is not alone in his love for or involvement with the sport.

Dirt bike racing is a family affair in the Anderson household. On weekends, the two bikes are placed in the trailer, which is hooked to the van. Then the Andersons pile into the van. Rich, his wife Wendy and their three boys Aaron (age 7), Cody (6) and Phillip (3). Then it is off to Florida, or New York, or California, or wherever the next competition is held.

The Andersons craft their family vacation around the races Rich chooses to run. Currently that involves only seven races each year, but Rich, who is passionate about his hobby, wants to expand to more races.

"One time Aaron, our oldest son, asked us 'How come every time we take a vacation, there's a race going on?'" said Wendy with a slight chuckle.

"The boys go to all the races," Rich said. "They're my little pit crew. They help me carry tools, they bring me water, they remind me of things I need to do and they give me a lot of moral support."

"It has been a great experience, and an enjoyable one, for the kids," Wendy said. (See RACING, Page 3B)

Area standouts leading SIUE women

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

Coach Brian Korbesmeyer is pumped over the prospects for the 1997 women's soccer season at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The Cougars return eight starters and five regulars from last year's squad that went 16-4-2, was ranked as high as second in the Division II national poll, and advanced to the NCAA playoffs.

Lost in the shuffle is standout goalkeeper Stephanie Kuit, who graduated, but back for another campaign is forward Janice Friedrich, the first All-American in SIUE history.

Also returning are Edwardsville's Allison Arnold, O'Fallon's Jennifer Haselhorst and Granite City's Valerie Hasty.

An already strong squad is strengthened even more by an exceptional class of incoming freshmen.

Julie Christman of Springfield High School, all-star Stacy Wade of Springfield Sacred Heart-Griffin, Megan Steverson of Glenwood and Michelle Montgomery of Michelle Montgomery, an All-Stater with GCHS this year, is one of several Metro East players on the SIUE women's roster.

Granite City up the odds for another outstanding season.

"Michelle Montgomery will be a great player," Korbesmeyer predicted. "She is quiet and laid back, but she does what she's told, she works extremely hard and she is a leader. She helped (Granite City coach) Gene Baker's program immensely and she should do the same for us."

"We've got more Illinois players on the squad this year than ever before in our history," Korbesmeyer added. "In the past, it's been hard picking up players from the Metro East, because there are so many schools relatively close by that are going after them. But, we're beginning to get them to come to SIUE."

We have also found a fertile area in the Springfield region. In fact, we have eight current players from Springfield. Put the two regions together and we've got the majority of our players — all of them top quality."

The Cougars are ranked 12th nationally in the National Coaches Association of America / NCA Division II poll and they play a schedule designed to secure a NCAA season-ending NCAA tournament bid.

SIUE opens the season in the UMSL tournament at Kirksville, Mo., on the last weekend of August. The Cougars meet 17th-ranked Truman State (formerly Northeast Missouri) at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 30. New Mexico State is next at noon Sunday, Aug. 31. The home opener is 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 13, against Great Lakes Valley Conference rival Wisconsin-Parkside.

In all, SIUE plays five teams (See SIUE, Page 3B)

Lewis ranked atop GLVC by coaches

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

Lewis University is the team to beat, according to the Great Lakes Valley Conference men's soccer coaches.

The defending GLVC champions have been selected as the preseason favorite to win the title again in 1997. Lewis garnered eight of the 19 first-place votes. Wisconsin-Parkside and Quincy rounded out the top three. Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville was ranked sixth.

SOCCER

Last year, Lewis (16-4-0) was a perfect 11-0 in league play and did not allow a goal during the conference's regular season. The Flyers won the GLVC postseason tournament.

"The preseason ranking is pretty much in line with the way the standings were last year," SIUC coach Ed Huneke said. "That's what we got to go on. I'll bet you look quite a bit different at the end of the year."

Huneke is confident that his experienced team will finish better than its 11-7 record of a year ago.

"We're setting a goal of winning the conference and I think it is a very realistic goal," Huneke said. "I do think we will be locally, regionally and nationally recognized before the year is over."

For a while last year, the Cougars were ranked among the Top 20 Division II teams in the nation. Huneke would like to see the team grab national accolades again in 1997.

"It's nice to have a little reward you get during the course of the year," Huneke said. "It's something that allows you to keep pushing other opponents in a different way. It can also be a little dangerous. The higher you are ranked you are, the more people will hunt for you. It will be a challenge to not only get there but to stay there."

The Cougars open up the 1997 campaign 6 p.m. Thursday with a home exhibition game against Columbia College. On Saturday night, the Cougars lock horns with St. Louis University at SIUE's Bob Gueller Field for the coveted Bronze Boot, which is also an exhibition contest. The match starts at 7:30 p.m.

SIUE opens the regular season on the road Aug. 29 in Jefferson City, Mo., against the college. "The Cougars' first regular season home game is Sept. 13 against Missouri Southern State."

Huneke also announced that former SIUE standout Joe Ringer will serve as an assistant this year.

running," he said. "But, I've been pursuing the points championship for two years, and I'm going after it with everything I've got in the last two races."

Anderson drives a Swedish built 1974 Husqvarna made of all alloy material and featuring a 250cc engine. The bike's power-to-weight ratio is phenomenal, making the machine very fast very quickly.

"It is not unusual for cyclists to run at 65 mph during competition, and over a closed course with sharp turns and jarring bumps, that is extremely fast."

"All courses are different," Anderson explained. "There is no set pattern. Mileage and terrain differ at each course. And the weather plays a big role. One time, a course might be muddy; another time, another course might be dry and dusty. The thing about dirt bike racing is that we race rain or shine. So, you've got to be prepared. You've got to adjust to conditions."

Along with the thrill of winning and being in the points championship chase, Anderson has experienced some frightening moments as well.

"I was racing at Grant, Mich., and had finished second in the first heat," he said. "I was third in the second heat when, suddenly, the top came off my carburetor and my bike was running wide open. I was cresting a huge hill when my bike flipped over backwards and I came down on my tail bone and broke it. That was probably the most frightening experience I've had in my short racing career."

But it won't stop Anderson, who is taking dead aim at the points title in his next race at the AFHMA's premier competition in Steam Boat Springs.

"I can do it," he said. "And I'm definitely going after the senior championship."

Rich Anderson (48) takes a turn in his 1974 Husqvarna. Anderson has been riding dirt bikes since 1971.

Justin Bernaia, a transfer from Northeastern Illinois, joins SIUE this season. The Cougars are coming off an 11-7-1 record last year.

from Northeastern Illinois. Kividi Kikama transferred from the College of DuPage. Mike Pryor (Wood River) transferred from Lewis & Clark Community College.

"We will have an immediate impact from that junior class made up of Little, Kikama, Mike Pryor," Huneke said. "Bernaia has one year under his belt. I think he can fit into that category too."

Kikama is probably the most interesting of the transfers. Kikama, who will play either up top or midfield, was voted all-tournament at the junior college national finals in 1996. Kikama was born in Congo (Africa).

"I think you will find him to be a very good two-way player," Huneke said. "I know he was good with his touch and his skill level when possessing the ball. Truthfully, I am pleasantly surprised that he has got a willingness to defend as well and that is very important at midfield."

The Cougars are loaded with talent and experience at midfield. In addition to Kikama's talents, Little will be the focal point in the middle. Seniors Reed and Thornberry also added to the mix along with Pryor, Maxfield and King.

"Matt Little is looking extremely good," Huneke said. "He's very talented. He is quick, skilled and a hard worker. I really like his passion as well. He will be our midfield general. We will look toward him in a big way."

"Jason Maxfield had a decent year last year and I think that disappointed him. In conversations with him and what I am seeing on the field, he is ready to have a real good senior year. He has the size, the speed, the passion and hunger to be a lot to deal with out there."

Freshman Nick Redman (Collinsville) and Steve Singleton are also pushing for minutes at midfield. Redman was an All-State performer last year for the Collinsville soccer team, which finished second at the state tournament. Singleton, of Broken Arrow, Okla., was All-District and an All-State honorable mention selection his senior year.

"Redman is showing well. He has got that savvy about the game," Huneke said. "I think he has some pretty decent size and that will provide him with what it takes to make it at this level. I am not exactly sure where I am going to play him, but his versatility is nice to have."

"It will be a real challenge for him to break the lineup, but at the same time he is real close and on the bubble."

Up front, Snyder was the Cougars' most prolific scorer last year with 12 goals and eight assists. Todd Hunter also adds skill up top as a third-year player.

Jaron Hines (Mascoutah) returns after playing football at Lindenwood College a year ago. Hines adds speed and strength to the Cougars' forward lineup.

The backfield looks strong with Hartmann and Darby returning to anchor the defense, along with newcomers Bernaia and freshman Brian Douglas.

"Doug has shown real well," Huneke said. "He's got the experience. He is solid, strong and can be a force in the back, which is what you like in the backfield. He lets forwards know he is out there. He has a dominating way of letting people know they are not going to get by easily."

"Matt Dubach shows good leadership in the backfield. He is one to direct the players in front of him and he makes good decisions. On top of that, he is extremely strong and a powerful player. Justin Bernaia shows a good skill level for a defender, but he has the toughness component you like back there as well."

ranked in the preseason top 20. In addition to Truman State, the Cougars take on UMSL, Lewis University, St. Joseph's of Rensselaer, Ind., and Lynn University of Boca Raton, Fla., the nation's second-ranked team.

"Ours is what I call a typical schedule to get a bid," Korbesmeyer said. "Strength of schedule, along with win-loss percentage, are the primary factors the NCAA committee looks at when deciding tournament bids. There are other factors considered, such as injuries, late season runs and the like, but there is no substitute for playing a strong schedule."

"That is what we aim to do. That is what we are doing."

The top eight teams in the Great Lakes Valley Conference advance to the GLVC Tournament, which begins Oct. 22. The finals are Oct. 25-26 at the field of the No. 1 seed.

"They've missed some school occasionally, but they kept journals and, when they returned, they were given a chance to tell all their classmates about their experience."

Rich, who like Rich, recognizes the potential for serious danger of the sport, admits, "I'm fine with it. I really am. Rich is a really, really safe driver. And he loves it. We love it too. It is truly a family affair."

"I love it," said oldest son Aaron. "I like to race, too. When my brother and I race, I always win. I get to ride my bike around the track after the race."

Six-year-old Cody also likes to race, but best of all likes to help dad.

"I carry things for him and help him out with things," he said. "Sometimes I'll remind him of things he needs to do, or if somebody asks about where something is, I show them."

Even 3-year-old Phillip is in on the excitement. "It's fun," he said. "I help."

Rich, who has been riding since 1971, did not, however, have a big fan in his mother.

"His mom was a nurse," explained Wendy. "When he first got a bike, all his mom would say was, 'If you get hurt, don't tell me about it. But, she finally came to terms with it. He loved it, and he was going to do it regardless of the possible danger involved."

Rich, who has raced before as many as 18,000 fans at the Mid-Ohio race course near Columbus, not only loves the competition, but enjoys meeting people from all over the country.

"It's part of what makes the sport so special," he said. "And it's part of what makes our trips, our vacations, so enjoyable as a family. We meet some wonderful people from places we've never been. You couldn't ask for a better experience as a family."

"I'll keep going as long as I don't get hurt, he added. "And, in this family, he won't be going alone."

BAC food coordinator achieves rare status

It has been a productive summer for Mike Hayes, coordinator of Belleville Area College's Hospitality/Food Service Management program.

Hayes of O'Fallon completed a successful internship as a chef's assistant in the main kitchen of the Adam's Mark Hotel in St. Louis. And he was certified as a Foodservice Management Professional (FMP) by the prestigious Educational Foundation of the National Restaurant Association.

Hayes joins an elite group, as there are only 1,700 FMP members across the United States and around the world.

The restaurant association awards certification to "those who demonstrate an exceptional level of experience, knowledge and leadership within the profession." The association only considers certification for individuals with the right combination of education and work experience.

To earn his FMP certificate, Hayes' knowledge of the restaurant industry was put to the test, literally, in a conference room in Chicago.

"There was a written test. You had to answer 200 questions in three hours," he said. The multiple-choice questions covered all aspects of owning a restaurant, including marketing, operations and cost management.

Seventy-five percent of the questions had to be answered correctly to pass the test. Even though they were not allowed to see their test scores, Hayes believes he answered between 90 to 95 percent correctly.

"I felt good when I walked out of there," Hayes says. He sees his latest honor as a rewarding personally and professionally. He sees it as another feather in the cap of BAC's Hospitality/Food Service program.

"That's one of the main reasons I felt I wanted to do it. It shows the students I'm just like them. I've had to keep learning."

Another learning site this summer for Hayes was the main kitchen of the Adam's Mark, where he served a month-long internship for the fourth consecutive year through the Vocational Instructional Program. The difference this year, however, was that Hayes worked in food preparation instead of hotel operations as he had done in the past.

"Their main kitchen prepares a million meals a year" just for the hotel's restaurant, Hayes said. That figure does not include meals for the hotel's private dining rooms or for hotel employees, he said.

With such a heavy workload, Hayes was surprised that there were only 10 people assigned to each shift. In fact, after only a few days on the job, he was assigned to work in a private dining room by himself, making omelets, pancakes and other types of breakfast food.

Hayes' typical work day lasted from 5:15 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., and so he got experience preparing dishes for breakfast, lunch and even dinner.

"If I never cut another vegetable in my life, I'll be happy," he said. The hotel chef insists that all vegetables be cut by hand in order to give them a more natural look, Hayes said.

A favorite of the lunch crowd was the California Chicken sandwich, which featured a grilled chicken breast dipped in honey mustard sauce on a wheat bun.

"We got a lot of requests for that," Hayes said. Knowing your menu and knowing that you will have to work long and odd hours are two lessons Hayes plans on passing on to his students.

For more information about the Hospitality/Food Service Management program, call Hayes at BAC's Granite City Campus at 931-0600 or 235-3700, extension 689, or toll-free in Illinois at 1-800-BAC-5131, extension 441 or 442.

Longtime official is interim chancellor

Longtime SIUE official David Werner will become interim chancellor Sept. 1 until a replacement for outgoing Chancellor Nancy Belick is found.

University President Ted Sanders announced Werner's appointment Tuesday, following a visit last week to the Edwardsville campus.

The appointment is subject to approval by the SIUE Board of Trustees.

Werner has been provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs since 1987. "I am pleased that Dr. Werner, who will not be a candidate for the permanent position, has agreed to take over the leadership of the Edwardsville campus during this period. He has demonstrated by his many years of excellent service to SIUE that he is highly qualified and capable of continuing the progress the university has enjoyed the past several years," Sanders said.

Belick is leaving Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville on Friday. She will become the first woman to serve as chancellor at the University of Nebraska at Omaha on Sept. 1.

Werner has been associated with SIUE since 1983, when he began teaching in the School of Business. He became dean of the business school in 1975, serving 12 years before being named provost and vice president for academic affairs. His title was changed to vice chancellor two years ago.

Werner also is a professor of management information systems and operations management. He has three sons, the youngest of whom is beginning his freshman year at SIUE-Carbondale.

Werner, 55, of Glen Carbon, said he will offer stability while a search team looks for a new chancellor since he is so familiar with the campus, its people and the challenges that lie ahead.

"There has been a long history of a stable mission and a constant course at the university, and I will be keeping things on that course," Werner said.

"We're very pleased with the appointment. He is an excellent selection for the position, he's been with SIUE for almost 30 years," SIUE spokesman Sam Smith said.

Besides managing the day-to-day operations, Werner will oversee construction of SIUE's second residence hall and its engineering building.

He said he does not know who will assume the responsibilities of provost while he serves as chancellor.

"It's exciting. I've always felt SIUE is an exciting university, and this is my opportunity to serve," Werner said. Sanders is expected to name a committee next month to begin searching for Belick's replacement, who could be named by next summer.

A search for a new chancellor also is under way on the Carbondale campus. A team there began its search for a new chancellor in July.

Werner and his wife Kay have three sons, the youngest of whom is beginning his freshman year at SIUE-Carbondale.

Young Price interested in GOP

County Republicans like son of former representative

Dr. William Melvin Price made no commitments, but Madison County Republicans liked what they heard about his possible run to regain his late father's congressional seat.

"He made a nice presentation and fielded questions 10 to 15 minutes. He talked about his background and why he's considering breaking with the family tradition," said Edward Ragdsdale, chairman of the Madison County Republican Party.

Price, 44, a Belleville orthopedic surgeon and son of the late longtime Democrat, U.S. Rep. Mel Price, spoke Monday to about 35 people at the regular Republican Central Committee meeting in Edwardsville.

Dr. Price has made no decision on a possible challenge to U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, who succeeded Price's father in the U.S. House. The older Price represented the 12th District for 22 terms from 1944 to 1988, when he died in office at age 63. "We are excited about having Price as a candidate, and he's clearly very interested. We're not making a commitment, but we were pleased to have him," Ragdsdale said.

"It was pretty much of a long shot before he came along, but it's looking better in that race," Ragdsdale said.

Costello, who has held the seat since 1988, was not available for comment, but a spokesman said the Democratic congressman has had Price's support in the past.

"Costello has known Bill Price since he moved to the area from Washington. He has no other comment," said Costello's district director, Tim Cadagin.

Price grew up in the Washington, D.C., area, where his father served as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. After a stint in the U.S. Air Force, the younger Price began practicing medicine in Belleville in 1988. Ragdsdale said he felt Price was a sharp individual who left the impression that he was a candidate who could attract Democratic voters.

"He comes out of that Democratic tradition and should be attractive to Democratic voters," the Republican chairman said. "He's very likeable and wants to be of service to the community."

Price, who could not be reached for comment Tuesday, was accompanied in Edwardsville by Steve McGlynn, chairman of the St. Clair County Republican Party, who also ushered him around the Illinois

State Fair on Republican Day in Springfield last week.

Some Republicans view Costello as vulnerable in the 1998 election after his boyhood friend and former business associate, Amiel Cueto, was convicted in federal court of conspiracy and obstruction of justice charges.

Costello was named an indicted co-conspirator during the trial, in which a jury found Cueto guilty of attempting to thwart an investigation into the gambling activities of Thomas Vastola. Costello has not been charged with any crime in connection with the investigation. — From The Telegraph

Gray to stay as NAACP head

James Gray has changed his mind about resigning as president of the Alton branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Gray, 61, first announced his resignation May 17 at the chapter's 29th annual Freedom Fund Banquet in Alton.

"I thought after seven years it was time to quit," Gray said. "I was just tired of the lack of support from the community."

Although Gray said the community didn't socialize with him much, he reconsidered his resignation after he attended a national NAACP convention last month in Pittsburgh.

"Our chapter was honored at the convention for the work we have been doing," he said. "We were voted the top branch in the country."

Gray added that top NAACP officials recognized that the Alton branch's members were not getting paid for their service, and he said that meant a lot to them.

Gray received the unanimous support of the chapter's executive board to remain branch president. He said he also received support from black and white religious organizations.

"I have support from blacks, as well as whites," Gray said.

Some of Gray's executive board members said they were very happy he didn't resign.

Joseph Williams, first vice president of the executive board, said he was proud that Gray decided to stay.

"He's a leader, and we need him," Williams said. "We hope he will remain with us for as long as he wants."

Bob Collins, second vice president, said the group needs someone like Gray to stand up and unite the black, white and religious organizations.

"If you stress education, the outcome will be rewarding. Educating our children is a problem we need to address, and it's much bigger than one man or woman to handle."

James Gray

"We don't need a 'yes' man. We need a person that is not going to be afraid to stand up and speak out."

Gray said he is ready to work with anybody who is willing to assist him in his projects of helping the communities. He added that he will accept the assistance from community leaders, as well as the Alton police and fire departments.

"One of our projects we need help with is those young men who have police records. They can't get jobs if they have a police record. We need to educate and help them turn their life around."

Gray said he also wants to improve housing and send messages to young people to stay in school.

"If you stress education, the outcome will be rewarding. Educating our children is a problem we need to address, and it's much bigger than one man or woman to handle. We need everyone's help."

Attics could hold hidden treasure

Could there be a fortune hidden in your attic?

Probably not. You might dream about discovering an old stock certificate worth thousands of dollars, but like winning the lottery, it doesn't happen to most people.

It's hard to estimate how many old securities certificates — for stocks, bonds or other corporate debt — are hidden away, outstanding and unredeemed. Some 2,500 companies change names, merge or are bought out by other companies each year. Often, the original share are never submitted for transfer. Old certificates may now represent ownership in another corporation. Even if the company is out of business, bankruptcies often leave assets.

Micheline Masse, founder and president of Stock Search International, says billions of dollars are available for unredeemed stocks and bonds. Her company specializes in researching old stock and bond certificates.

Before you ransack old desk drawers and file cabinets, be aware that the odds of finding a treasure are very low. Masse says that out of about 3,000 certificates she examines each year, only 1,200 have any value. Half of those typically are worth only a few dollars to collectors. Another 300 have possible value. Only the remaining 300 — about 10 percent of the total — have any significant value. But even with those odds, Masse has recovered more than $5 million for her clients over the years.

The real value of old certificates may be in scrippophily, the hobby of collecting old stock and bond certificates. This growing hobby emerged in Europe in the late 1970s.

Scrippophiles typically focus their collections within specific industries such as automobiles, railroads, banking, mining or entertainment.

Newly discovered issues are continually turning up. Unlike coins, bank notes and stamps, the production of stock certificates is not monitored by governments. Collectors have found unknown, limited bond issues and certificates with important signatures.

One investor found a bond issued by czarist Russia before it fell to communism. He couldn't collect any back interest, but it was a real collector's find.

If you come across old securities, don't throw them away. Your financial professional can help you sort it out, the research process; and if you're one of the lucky few, those certificates might have more than just sentimental value.

BAC students hop aboard 'Enterprise'

Recent Belleville Area College graduate Leah Lockwood came away from a leadership conference this summer with renewed self-confidence, stronger leadership skills, newfound friends and the ability to construct a seaworthy raft from cardboard and drinking straws.

Lockwood, 20, of Maryville was one of 30 college students from all over the world who attended Operation Enterprise, a 10-day leadership conference this May in Hamilton, N.Y.

The conference was sponsored by the American Management Association, the world's largest professional management organization.

"Operation Enterprise was really an eye-opening experience," Lockwood said. "It really helped build my confidence and self-esteem."

During Operation Enterprise students attended lectures, seminars and workshops on a daily basis at the lakeside retreat. Topics included management techniques, professional ethics, motivation, leadership and basic business skills.

BAC's chapter of Phi Beta Lambda, the college version of the Future Business Leaders of America, won the chance to attend the conference through an essay contest. PBL sponsored her participation in the conference through a scholarship the group won in previous competitions.

Sue Taylor, a BAC Business faculty member and PBL sponsor, said Operation Enterprise is an accelerated program geared toward leadership development. She said for students who have shown aptitude in business and management this can give them a leg up.

Though Lockwood enjoyed all of the different types of workshops and the motivational speakers at the conference, she said she learned the most from the leadership exercises.

In one exercise, teams competed in raft building. Each team had to build a raft using wood paneling, cardboard and drinking straws. The trick was to build it in less than half an hour, and make sure it would float.

Lockwood was chosen the leader of her team for her easy-going, friendly style, she said.

"I learned that people really have to work together to accomplish a goal," she said. "Sometimes it is more important for a leader to delegate responsibility than it is to just tell people what to do."

Lockwood's team came in second place in the competition. The empty raft stayed afloat on the lake but drifted away, she said.

Another exercise that helped her and others build self-confidence was the Manager for a Day simulation. Individuals acted as managers of a company for one day. The exercise included a list of duties and problems the manager had to handle.

"You had to play it by ear and use your own instincts," she said. "Everyone handled the problems in their own way."

Problems included missed orders, scheduling difficulties and even a problem employee. Lockwood said there were no right or wrong solutions to the problems. The exercise helped students develop their abilities to handle multiple tasks and think on their feet.

"It felt real dealing with all of these problems," she said. "I even had to fire a guy."

Not every student manager felt it was necessary to fire the employee. However, Lockwood felt that in her simulation the company could not be successful if its employees were not being productive.

Taylor said Operation Enterprise is a terrific place for students to get their first taste of a career in business.

The program was started 30 years ago as a way to provide young adults with first-hand knowledge about the business world they planned to enter. Organizations that participate in Operation Enterprise include AT&T, Coca-Cola, Federal Express, Hershey Foods, IBM, Mobil Oil, Nabisco, Sony Music Entertainment and Xerox, among others.

Business leaders from these companies and many others volunteer their time to serve as speakers and workshop leaders.

Lockwood graduated from BAC in May with an associate of science degree in Business Administration. She is transferring to the University of San Francisco in the fall. She would like to remain active in PBL, but the university does not have a chapter. Currently, she is investigating other business-oriented organizations she can join in San Francisco.

Glen Carbon woman joins Rural Development agency

Rural Development, formally the Farmers Home Administration, announced recently that Betty Jacober of Glen Carbon has joined the staff as community development specialist.

One of Jacober's responsibilities will be the Guaranteed Rural Housing Program.

This program makes home ownership for moderate-income people in rural areas possible by providing up to 100 percent financing for new and existing houses. Moderate income is defined as 115 percent of the median income in an area.

In Madison County, for example, a household of four persons could qualify with an adjusted income of $2,750.

Loans are made on thirty year terms. Eligibility requirements for applicants include: acceptable credit history, be without adequate housing, and be able to occupy the house on a permanent bases. The guaranteed loan can provide up to 100 percent of the appraised value of the home, with no down payment required.

The Edwardsville county office of Rural Development covers the counties of Madison, St. Clair, Monroe, Clinton and Bond.

Jacobser has been an active real estate agent since 1976. She was previously broker/manager for an Edwardsville real estate company.

Jacobser served as president of the Greater Gateway Association of Realtors twice and as district vice president of the Illinois Association of Realtors. She is a past recipient of the Realtor of the Year award.

Jacobser has also been very active in her community, such as serving as director of the Edwardsville-Glen Carbon Chamber of Commerce and as director of the United Way.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Aug. 21). Your discipline and drive

Old rock and roll can be tiresome

By Kevin Carbery
Correspondent

I don't care if I hear another Bob Seger song as long as I live.

I do not hate Bob Seger. In fact, the first live concert I ever went to was when I saw him at the Arena. Actually, I think it was called the Checkerdome at that time. Anyway, I was a big fan of his "Stranger in Town" album and I especially liked the song "Still the Same."

My problem with Seger's music is that about four or five of his tunes have been overplayed so much over the years that I now cringe at the thought of hearing them.

Sadly, Seger's invasions into our lives don't end there. I have heard "Old Time Rock and Roll" at virtually every bar and wedding reception I have been at over the last 15 years.

Melissa Etheridge's music is also on the airwaves way too much. The same thing can be said about Sheryl Crow's.

While I'm on the subject of overplayed songs, why do deejays seem to think "Jamming" is the only song the public wants to hear from Bob Marley's extensive roster of music?

For this week's trivia, the topic is rock music. Don't worry, you will recognize these songs if you have been alive and listening to music in the last 25 years.

1. This song, first recorded by the Top Notes, was a hit for the Isley Brothers, but it's the Beatles' version that gets played all the time on the radio and at wedding receptions. What is it?
2. What is the name of the song by Gary Glitter that is played at virtually every sports event in the country?
3. Which famous performer plays steel guitar on "Teach Your Children," by Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young?
4. What was Bachman-Turner Overdrive's only No. 1 hit?
5. What was the name of the popular rap song from the movie "Dangerous Minds" that got played over and over?

6. What's the name of the song about Buddy Holly's death that has been played to death over the years?
7. Who had a No. 2 hit with "Baker Street"?
8. I don't know how many times I've heard "Tuesday Afternoon" played on the radio on Tuesday afternoons. Which band came out with this song?
9. What was the highest-charting song off of Boston's debut album?
10. This No. 1 hit by the Doobie Brothers was co-written by Kenny Loggins and Michael McDonald.

Answers: 1. "Twist and Shout." 2. "Rock and Roll Part 2." 3. "It's more country than you." 4. "You Ain't Seen Nothing Yet." 5. "Gangster Paradise," by Coolio and featuring L.V. 6. "American Pie," by Don McLean. This is another tune I don't ever need to hear again. 7. Gerry Rafferty. 8. The Moody Blues. 9. "More Than a Feeling," which hit No. 5. 10. "What a Fool Believes."

'Conspiracy Theory' is an effective thriller

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

Fluoride has been put in our water supply to weaken our will and make us easier for the government to control. NASA has equipped the space shuttle with a weapon that can cause earth's ozone layer to deplete. War was started over a bet.

Welcome to the world of New York cabdriver Jerry Fletcher. Fletcher sees conspiracies everywhere, and spreads the word to all his fares, as well as the handful of subscribers to his newsletter, Conspiracy Theory. Naturally, no one takes him seriously. Unfortunately, he may be right.

"Conspiracy Theory" is an effective suspense-thriller with plenty of plot twists and turns, chases and explosions, and even a love story.

Mel Gibson plays Fletcher, a man so paranoid he padlocks his refrigerator and the individual contents inside. His apartment is a rat's nest of files and old newspaper clippings, all rigged up to be destroyed in flame at the flip of a switch.

The only person he really trusts is Justice Department

Attorney Alice Sutton (Julia Roberts). He frequently makes unannounced visits to her office to share his latest theories, and she tolerates him because he once rescued her from a mugger.

Things take an unexpected turn following one meeting, when Fletcher is kidnapped and taken to a secret location where he is tortured for information by a mysterious Dr. Jonas (Patrick Stewart).

Director Richard Donner keeps everyone, on screen and in the audience, off balance. Gibson gives a suitably edgy, paranoid performance and the rest of the cast do fine work as well.

A black and white line drawing of a man with a large, curly afro hairstyle, wearing a t-shirt and jeans, holding a large, round, textured object (possibly a pizza or a large sandwich) in front of his face. He is standing next to a sign that reads "GARAGE SALE". The drawing is done in a simple, sketchy style with bold lines. The man's face is partially obscured by the object he is holding. The sign is rectangular and placed on the ground next to him. The background is minimal, with some light shading suggesting a ground surface.
